T-shirts Bring Attention to “Stay at Home” Order

BUTLER COUNTY, OH - When Jamie Baker of JJ Artistic Designs provided the Butler County General Health District’s Health Commissioner, Jennifer Bailer, with a T-shirt to match her saying of “Stay the Heck at Home, Butler County,” it was just for fun-- but interest grew and the T-shirt quickly became a logo for a social media campaign, #StaytheHeckatHomeBC.

Bailer said, “Butler County has been doing such a great job staying at home in order to keep our numbers of COVID-19 cases low and our curve as flat as possible, that I wanted a way to continue to encourage everyone to keep up the great work. Our citizens are literally saving lives!”

Now the T-shirt has a sequel: “KEEP Staying the Heck at Home, Butler County!” launched on Facebook yesterday.

“It is good to have community partners all working together towards the same goal! Hopefully people will want to wear this T-shirt, or share the logo to let others know that they are on board!” added Bailer.

Baker states, “I initially created the design to help spread the stay at home message. It was exciting to see the Health Commissioner wearing my t-shirt on Facebook. Adding the second shirt was my way of helping to flatten the curve.”

T-shirts are available for purchase on Baker’s website at: <http://www.jjartisticdesign.com/>
